Corruption is Threatening Afghan Society

O f the most frustrating issues for Afghanistan is corruption. To take quick and effective measures to control it, while US must make serious steps to do it. With the rampant corruption threatening the stability, security and legiti-

ity. Corruption basically generates a sort of injustice within the society and it remains fragile. As Director of National Intelligence James Clapper recently noted, “It is true that the governing coalition in Afghanistan needs to do the same as far as political and economic stability are concerned. It also needs to do the same as far as political and economic stability are concerned. The increasing resignations of government officials seem to put pressure on government that have been facing growing demands from diverse broad spectrum of politicians in the country. In recent months, a number of government officials including Mohammad Fawad Alemi Nazari, the Deputy Interior Minister; Ahmad Fawad Ahmadi, the Acting Governor of Khost and the Minister of Information and Communications; Haji Abdul
