The Independent Election Commission (IEC) on Monday so far has not reached a final decision on the use of the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. Based on the amendment made in the election law, the IEC should hold the elections with the help of biometric system. “Assessment has been done using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.

IEC officials said they are assessing the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The first discussion is about the possibility of using the biometric system in the upcoming presidential elections. The commission will take the final decision once the government takes its decision,” the IEC deputy spokesman Zabulab Sadat said.