The spokesmen said Pakistan has no plans to stop the talks by bringing the insurgent group to the negotiating table. They are also under pressure to agree on a roadmap to end the Taliban or to attempt to bring the group to the table.

Pakistan’s State of Mike Pompeo while testifying before a Congresso

\[1/(1) Pakistan Refrains from...\]

... seeking to bring the Taliban to the negotiating table and help them in sustaining support from the country. Their contacts with the Taliban, Afghan officials have also regularly accused Tehrani in recent years of the insurgent war.

Russia hosted an international conference in Moscow earlier this year, attended by several Taliban delegates and representatives of the Afghan government. Moscow was seeking to secure its diplomatic diplomacy for its priority, because it was there that it was possible to conduct negotiations in a climate of confidence and trust.

In addition, Moscow’s effort to organize this conference was a “utilitarian move” by one senior Western official, laid bare the tensions that have hampered an earlier round of talks which ended in failure. The collapse of the meeting before it even started, described as a “failure” and “a loss” by the leaders of the region and the world, will not lead to the economic integration of the region and the volume of trade. (Trend)

The collapse of the meeting before it even started, described as a “failure” and “a loss” by the leaders of the region and the world, will not lead to the economic integration of the region and the volume of trade. (Trend)