Afghanistan will feature in the agenda of the NATO foreign ministers meeting in Brussels on the 27th of April (Friday), an alliance official said on Wednesday.

KABUL - Reporters Without Borders say Afghan journalists have continued to defend rights, pluralism and independence despite many hurdles.

Reporters Without Borders, also known as RSF, released its latest index on Press Freedom on Wednesday, noting an increase in hatred against journalists around the world.

In some provinces, the organization said, the Taliban forced the media to pay arbitrary taxes that were tantamount to ransom.

Many governors and local officials are meanwhile unable to accept the principle of media independence, and the police and military...(More on P4)...(2)
