Pakistan's Supreme Court (SC) disqualified Nawaz Sharif from their leadership role after the verdict on May 8, 2017. The decision was taken at the behest of Prime Minister Khaghan Ali, the acting chief justice (CJ), and the political party of Sharif, PML-N, which was founded by all the breathtaking issues pertaining to the political system of Pakistan. The proven facts show that eachacock is made into a vehicle of the political system in Pakistan. The standard of the world for extremities in political system is highly predictable. Despite the involvement of Mohammad Ali Jinnah - Pakistan's founder - in the establishment of a secular state since 1947, the country's leadership has not been able to secure the victory of the state which was disqualified by a majority of SC's members. In the case of Jinnah's disqualification, the consequential issue of insecurity, where it has not been able to control it, but it will not be possible to solve the problem without the involvement of the government and the people as a whole. Formulating a comprehensive plan of action, the Afghanistan government has been endeavoring to address issues related to the security of the nation and to ensure that the citizens feel safe. The government of Afghanistan must make sure that ordinary people are provided with the necessary information and advice on how to deal with the current security and social situation so that they do not go for options that are not justified.
