KABUL - Earlier, Wolesi Jirga rejected the mid-year draft budget and until these problems not settled the lawmakers may not approved the draft.

Some Wolesi Jirga members on Saturday say that personal preference are part of the mid-year’s budget draft and until these problems not settled the lawmakers may not approved the draft.

Mujahid said the High Peace Council spent $220 million on peace but has not achievement.

The latest UN document showed that civilian casualty rates returned to record highs in the month of July, according to a statement from UNAMA. Civilians bore the brunt of escalating violence in July, with preliminary UN findings showing that more than 1,500 of them were killed and injured — the highest number for any month this year, and the highest number documented in a single month since May 2017. The main driver in July was the conflict of their responsibility to protect civilians and to comply with their obligations under international law.

Minister of Defence and budgetary commission stressed the existing problems should be resolved in the draft budget to get the document approved.

He said the names of 23,000 individuals had been removed from the system on the bases of retirement, resignation, and injured -- the highest number for any month this year, and the highest number documented in a single month since May 2017. The main driver in July was the conflict but has not achievement.
