Aghani women have largely been excluded from political decision-making in the course of the history. Thus, women were largely excluded from the Bonn process. Since then, they have made significant gains in rights and political participation. However, despite Afghanistan adopting in 2015 a National Action Plan on United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325, op- portunities for women remain limited. U.S. peace envoy Zalmay Khalilzad visited Qatari capital to start the 9th round of talks with Taliban negotiators. He then will travel to Kabul to meet with Afghanistan leaders to impart that it is time to implement a peace deal with the Taliban. Now it is time to fully incorporate the Afghan women into the political process and the peace negotiations. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peace. This is where a more inclusive process and effective implementations of the gender-related provisions of peac...