Experts Urge Politicians to Avoid Mud-Slugging

KABUL - Political experts believe that verbal clashes among some political leaders would not serve the country’s interest and instead of mud-slinging and condemnation, politicians should jointly work to overcome crises.

One of them, Bashir Bezan said millions of Afghans had been killed and their properties lost just because of strong rivalries among political parties. He said bitter experiences of the past should not be allowed to repeat. Commenting on the continuation of the conflict in the country, he said: “We believe the ground is being prepared for politics of the past, certain strides in the country have been using the language of war, people doubt the commitment of the government particularly President Ashraf Ghani on peace and stability.” Bezan said: “More on P4-L(08)

Pakistan, Afghanistan Agree for Army Working Group

ISLAMABAD - Pakistan media reported that Islamabad and Kabul have agreed to work together to formulate security recommendations for discussion on areas of mutual concern.

Pakistan’s Chief of Army Staff General Qamar Javed Bajwa has said terrorism is a transcendental threat that can only be defeated through intelligence-sharing, and coordinated effective border management. Pakistan’s media stated that Bajwa met his Afghan counterpart Gen. Sherif Yaftali on the sidelines of a Quadrilateral Counter Terrorism Coordination Mechanism (QCTCM) meeting in Pakistan on Sunday and discussed the situation in Afghanistan.
