Negotiations: An Undeniable Strategy That Every Government Appreciates It

The Significance of Moscow Peace Talks
One of the main aspects of Moscow Peace Talks with the Taliban is that different countries that are mindful of the importance of diplomatic solution to the Afghan problem are present in the summit. Considering the complicated nature of insecurity in Afghanistan, more representation from other countries is needed to find a consolidated solution to the prolonging conflict in the country. And Moscow Peace talks with Taliban provides the opportunity that different players to be present on the negotiating table hoping to find a consensus solution to the prolonging conflict in Afghanistan and ensures player is kept out of the loop. Another worth noticing dimension is that Russia is one of the key regional and international players, as it has strategic interests and concerns in terms of spread of violence and terrorism of the region to Afghanistan against its interest in Afghanistan and the region. In particular, a step-by-step Plan for a comprehensive reduction of nuclear threats was adopted at the Tashkent Conference in 1965. The resolution of the UN General Assembly noted that “it is necessary to inform people more actively about the consequences of nuclear test explosions, for the acquisition of humanity’s freedom from fear of nuclear self-destruction». In addition, the Head of state stressed that the most important initiative in the current situation is the recognition on both sides of the possible role of arms control or limitation, and even of disarmament, in achieving the goal of a world free of nuclear weapons».

In the context of the tension between Moscow and Afghanistan, the Taliban stating the same anti-ethnic elements are being supported, but the changes made to the political situation in Afghanistan and the role of Afghanistan in the region as well as different coalitions these peace efforts have been seen doubtfully by the Afghan government. The on-going war in Afghanistan that the nation’s economy and future will be the results of the terrorist war in Afghanistan which be realized by the US. Specific reasons have been mentioned occasionally for this lack of participation of Afghanistan’s allies. They approach the growing contact between Moscow and Afghanistan should include Taliban as well if it is to be made a successful peace process. From the Russia’s perspective the very agenda of Afghanistan should be led by the Afghan government in order to ensure the future of Afghanistan. From Central Asian states and from there on to other states including the US. Specific reasons have been mentioned occasionally for this lack of participation of Afghanistan’s allies. They approach the growing contact between Moscow and Afghanistan as an undeniable strategy that every government appreciates it.