Empowering Persons with Disabilities

T
day is going to be observed as Inter-Day of Persons with Disabilities (IDPD) around the world. The day was first proclaimed by United Nations General Assembly in 1992 and since then the day is observed annually to highlight the rights and needs of people with disabilities. The theme of the day this year is ‘Empowering people with disabilities and ensuring inclusiveness and equality’. The theme emphasizes that people with disabilities must be empowered for an inclusive, equitable and sustainable development towards achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

It is really imperative that a society must ensure that all its residents get rid of their disabilities. They must be given their due rights. And these rights must be ensured without any sort of discrimination.

The rights of the special people – the people suffering from different sorts of disabilities, must also be ascertained through proper policies and actions by the relevant authorities. The understanding and acceptance of the people towards the person in their daily circumstances as all the members of the society stand equal as far as justice and fair play are concerned. In particular, the rights of the special people – the people suffering from different sorts of disabilities, must also be ascertained through proper policies and actions by the relevant authorities.

Some NGOs on certain occasions made some efforts in this regard. They have provided food and support to uplift their standard of living. Such efforts, if followed and maintained with determination, can definitely support the disabled to live normal life and become productive citizens of the society. In addition, positive attitude of the society can assist the disabled in developing optimistic approach towards life and bring prosperity and development not only to themselves but to the country as well.

Nevertheless, it must not be forgotten that the negative attitude of the people towards the disabled people with disabilities is a major challenge faced by them. In particular, the people living in the remote areas of our country are not having enough knowledge about these matters. In these areas, the facilities are not enough and that they will face more challenges.

Unfortunately, the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the physical and spiritual fronts. In particular, the people with disabilities are so naturally or as the aftermath of disasters or wars, they are forced to go for begging; in addition, it is hard to find people who can provide them proper treatment and modern facilities are available for them free of cost, the disabled are so naturally or as the aftermath of disasters or wars, they are forced to go for begging; in addition, it is hard to find people who can provide them proper treatment and modern facilities are available for them free of cost.

Having said this, it is important to note that the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the fronts. The medical facilities for the disabled are in no sufficient way. Hospitals and centers are there for them, but the existing ones are not sufficient to cater the needs of the disabled people. The methods of treatment and the facilities that can be made in their lives are not readily available and they go unfed. Furthermore, the disabled people in the rural areas face the same barrier.

Some NGOs on certain occasions made some efforts in this regard. They have provided food and support to uplift their standard of living. Such efforts, if followed and maintained with determination, can definitely support the disabled to live normal life and become productive citizens of the society. In addition, positive attitude of the society can assist the disabled in developing optimistic approach towards life and bring prosperity and development not only to themselves but to the country as well.

Nevertheless, it must not be forgotten that the negative attitude of the people towards the disabled people with disabilities is a major challenge faced by them. In particular, the people living in the remote areas of our country are not having enough knowledge about these matters. In these areas, the facilities are not enough and that they will face more challenges.

Unfortunately, the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the physical and spiritual fronts. In particular, the people with disabilities are so naturally or as the aftermath of disasters or wars, they are forced to go for begging; in addition, it is hard to find people who can provide them proper treatment and modern facilities are available for them free of cost.

Having said this, it is important to note that the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the fronts. The medical facilities for the disabled are in no sufficient way. Hospitals and centers are there for them, but the existing ones are not sufficient to cater the needs of the disabled people. The methods of treatment and the facilities that can be made in their lives are not readily available and they go unfed. Furthermore, the disabled people in the rural areas face the same barrier.

Some NGOs on certain occasions made some efforts in this regard. They have provided food and support to uplift their standard of living. Such efforts, if followed and maintained with determination, can definitely support the disabled to live normal life and become productive citizens of the society. In addition, positive attitude of the society can assist the disabled in developing optimistic approach towards life and bring prosperity and development not only to themselves but to the country as well.

Nevertheless, it must not be forgotten that the negative attitude of the people towards the disabled people with disabilities is a major challenge faced by them. In particular, the people living in the remote areas of our country are not having enough knowledge about these matters. In these areas, the facilities are not enough and that they will face more challenges.

Unfortunately, the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the physical and spiritual fronts. In particular, the people with disabilities are so naturally or as the aftermath of disasters or wars, they are forced to go for begging; in addition, it is hard to find people who can provide them proper treatment and modern facilities are available for them free of cost.

Having said this, it is important to note that the government of Afghanistan has been suffering on both the fronts. The medical facilities for the disabled are in no sufficient way. Hospitals and centers are there for them, but the existing ones are not sufficient to cater the needs of the disabled people. The methods of treatment and the facilities that can be made in their lives are not readily available and they go unfed. Furthermore, the disabled people in the rural areas face the same barrier.

Some NGOs on certain occasions made some efforts in this regard. They have provided food and support to uplift their standard of living. Such efforts, if followed and maintained with determination, can definitely support the disabled to live normal life and become productive citizens of the society. In addition, positive attitude of the society can assist the disabled in developing optimistic approach towards life and bring prosperity and development not only to themselves but to the country as well.

In Afghanistan, the right to education is a constitutional right. However, the government has been unable to fulfill this right for many years. The quality of education in Afghanistan is poor, and the educational system is not able to meet the needs of the disabled. This is a major issue that needs to be addressed urgently.

In addition to this, the government must also ensure that disabled individuals have access to employment opportunities. This will not only help them become productive members of society but also reduce poverty and inequality.

Moreover, the government must also ensure that disabled individuals have access to healthcare services. This is essential for their well-being and quality of life. The government must also invest in research and development to find new treatments and therapies for disabilities.

In conclusion, the rights of disabled individuals are fundamental and must be respected and protected. The government must take immediate action to address the issues faced by disabled individuals and ensure that they have access to education, employment, and healthcare services. This will not only help them become productive members of society but also reduce poverty and inequality.