is suitable for democracy. Thus, the dream of a stable and well-developed democracy may shatter and we will not be able to recreate it.

If we really like democracy and democratic values, we would require making every possible effort to make our country a perfect democracy. We would require bringing considerable changes and new ideas so that these new ideas may get rooted in the minds of our people. Thus, we would require making every effort so that the people may understand the necessity of democratic values.

If we are to have a stable and well-developed democracy, we would require giving a lot of attention to the role of institutions. Democracy is a social process that involves the participation of the people. It requires that the people be educated about their rights and duties so that they may participate in the democratic process.

The strong democracies have always had strong institutions. The institutions that are not run by the whims of the individuals but the ones that guarantee the collective objectives and well-being. The basic institutions that can ensure proper democracy are the ones that are of public, legislature, executive, and media. These institutions should ensure that they perform their duties by preventing the government from doing the wrong things. These institutions should contribute to the nourishment of democratic culture. If these institutions favor the interests of certain individuals or the group individuals, they cannot support in strengthening democracy.

At the individual level, the most important prerequisite is that the people must be made to understand that democracy is a social process where the people need to work together for the betterment of the society. People need to support democracy fundamentally and their ideas should be translated into democratic values and action. People should support democracy in all the circumstances that are suitable to guarantee welfare of the people.

Thus, the dream of a stable and well-developed democracy can be achieved if the people support democracy and democratic values in all the possible circumstances.