Russian, US Diplomats Discuss Afghan Settlement

MOSCOW - U.S. special envoy for peace in Afghanistan Zalmay Khalilzad discussed on Friday the Afghan settlement process with Russian officials. He met Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Morgulov and Presidential Envoy for Afghanistan Zamir Kabulov in Moscow. According to a statement by the Russian Foreign Ministry, the diplomats examined the current situation in Afghanistan and prospects of building Russian-U.S. interaction to promote direct talks between the fighting Afghan sides.

"During the meetings, the current situation in the IRA (Islamic Republic of Afghanistan) was discussed, as well as the prospects for establishing Russian-American cooperation," Mr. Kabulov said.

Addressing a UN Central Assembly debate on the situation in Afghanistan, Prime Minister Imran Khan says, instead of only a political solution, the searches for the war-torn country.

Those who have been asking Pakistan to do more to support the US war effort wanted it to mediate between Afghan warlords and the government in Kabul, Khan told a group of students from Balochistan.

"We need peace in Afghanistan, but Pakistan will not fight others' war for the neighbor country," the prime minister told the students at his office on Friday.

The defects liability period shall be 12 months after the Certificate of Substantial Completion of the contract.
