U.S. and China Trade Barbs at WTO amid Calls for Reform

The United States and China traded barbs at the World Trade Organization on Monday amid renewed calls for the US government to be held accountable for what critics have termed "sabotaging" the trade body. The US, which has launched nearly 300 complaints against China at the WTO, argued that it was time for the US to change its ways. China, which has accused the US of "bullying" and "abusing" its power, said it was time for the US to change its ways. The heated words, in texts, were seen by Reuters, were ex-WTO China Commissioner Zhou Wei speaking. The heated words, in texts, were seen by Reuters, were ex-WTO China Commissioner Zhou Wei speaking. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways. Zhou said that the US had been "bullying" and "abusing" its power at the WTO, and that it was time for the US to change its ways.