About election tickets that include threats of the first degree employees' organizations. IEC has announced may be acceptable.

About the invalidation of all Kabul provinces and asked for its reconsideration.

The Ghori Cement Factory was taken four months time, he said. "The factory is still run by the private company that was yet to be handed over to the government.

"The unity government was also not able to create the national unity government and it will use all its capacities to serve their own interest and were not able to announce clear result of the presidential election in time because there was a crisis and that was the reason the international community itself created the national unity government."

The unity government was not able to hold Wolesi Jirga and district council elections and political parties wanted to have a Loya Jirga to amend the Constitution.

He said election tickets promised the CEO post in order to attract more voters, but it was not a solution. "It is a clear violation of the Constitution," he said. According to the law, the CEO is split and it has never made a good decision, government is not an organ, it should release a statement and make it clear any move in conflict of law would not be acceptable, but unfortunately it the election commission does not release and wait for orders from others," Rashid said.

Shahla Farid, a political science lecturer at Kabul University, government had promised to hold a Loya Jirga and make the CEO position in its presidential election ticket, it was not acceptable.

At养殖场 the national unity government and creation of the CEO and its independence, the parties would not be able to announce clear result of the presidential election, the country was moving towards a crisis and that was the reason the international community itself created the national unity government.

The unity government was not able to hold Wolesi Jirga and district council elections and political parties wanted to have a Loya Jirga to amend the Constitution.

He said election tickets promised the CEO post in order to attract more voters, but it was not a solution. "It is a clear violation of the Constitution," he said. According to the law, the CEO is split and it has never made a good decision, government is not an organ, it should release a statement and make it clear any move in conflict of law would not be acceptable, but unfortunately it the election commission does not release and wait for orders from others," Rashid said.

Shahla Farid, a political science lecturer at Kabul University, government had promised to hold a Loya Jirga and make the CEO position in its presidential election ticket, it was not acceptable.

At养殖场 the national unity government and creation of the CEO and its independence, the parties would not be able to announce clear result of the presidential election, the country was moving towards a crisis and that was the reason the international community itself created the national unity government.

The unity government was not able to hold Wolesi Jirga and district council elections and political parties wanted to have a Loya Jirga to amend the Constitution.

He said election tickets promised the CEO post in order to attract more voters, but it was not a solution. "It is a clear violation of the Constitution," he said. According to the law, the CEO is split and it has never made a good decision, government is not an organ, it should release a statement and make it clear any move in conflict of law would not be acceptable, but unfortunately it the election commission does not release and wait for orders from others," Rashid said.

Shahla Farid, a political science lecturer at Kabul University, government had promised to hold a Loya Jirga and make the CEO position in its presidential election ticket, it was not acceptable.

At养殖场 the national unity government and creation of the CEO and its independence, the parties would not be able to announce clear result of the presidential election, the country was moving towards a crisis and that was the reason the international community itself created the national unity government.

The unity government was not able to hold Wolesi Jirga and district council elections and political parties wanted to have a Loya Jirga to amend the Constitution.

He said election tickets promised the CEO post in order to attract more voters, but it was not a solution. "It is a clear violation of the Constitution," he said. According to the law, the CEO is split and it has never made a good decision, government is not an organ, it should release a statement and make it clear any move in conflict of law would not be acceptable, but unfortunately it the election commission does not release and wait for orders from others," Rashid said.

Shahla Farid, a political science lecturer at Kabul University, government had promised to hold a Loya Jirga and make the CEO position in its presidential election ticket, it was not acceptable.

At养殖场 the national unity government and creation of the CEO and its independence, the parties would not be able to announce clear result of the presidential election, the country was moving towards a crisis and that was the reason the international community itself created the national unity government.