Ghani Promises Parliamentary Election Next Year

KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani pledged on Tuesday to hold promised parliamentary and district council elections next year, as he sought to calm growing political turmoil that has hindered his government’s fight against the Taliban insurgency. Parliament’s five-year term was set to expire on June 22 this year, but elections due in April were postponed because of the war and deadlock on how to address political challenges. The Taliban has already denied parliamentary elections, calling them a setup designed to allow the Nasib Abdullah administration to continue in power.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

KABUL - The Afghan Foreign Ministry on Tuesday announced that Kabul will host a key meeting on peace talks between Afghanistan, Pakistan, United States and China next week.

KABUL - The Afghan Foreign Ministry on Tuesday announced that Kabul will host a key meeting on peace talks between Afghanistan, Pakistan, United States and China next week.

KABUL - The Afghan Foreign Ministry on Tuesday announced that Kabul will host a key meeting on peace talks between Afghanistan, Pakistan, United States and China next week.

KABUL - The Afghan Foreign Ministry on Tuesday announced that Kabul will host a key meeting on peace talks between Afghanistan, Pakistan, United States and China next week.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

PARRIS - A total of 110 journalists were killed around the world in 2015, Reporters Without Borders (RSF) said on Tuesday, noting that while many died in war zones the majority were killed in supposedly peaceful places. Sixty-seven journalists were killed in the line of duty, the watchdog group said in its annual roundup, listing war-torn countries and the Syrian government. If they come to our neighborhood.

"Parliamentary and district council elections will be held in a bright summer and autumn of the United States," Ghani said in a statement, adding that the elections would be for the Independent Electoral Commission. "If they go ahead as planned, the elections are likely to be held after a backup of simply securing votes."

KABUL - On the eve of the first anniversary of the end of the US-led invasion in Afghanistan, US officials said that they are facing the current situation, arguing that the Taliban has gained the ground in the country. Ghani issued a decree in June 2015 that abolished the term. "We are ready to be flexible and to adjust the situation in Afghanistan, an Islamic fun."

The high toll is “largely attributable to deliberate attacks against journalists” and demonstrates the failure of initia-...