February 01, 2018

Taliban's Atrocious Attacks are against all Principles

By Hafizullah Zia

 Brutality attacks the heart of Kabul, which killed 103 and wounded 245 people. It was a gross violation of human rights and humanitarian law. This attack highlighted the Taliban's disregard for human lives and their determination to undermine peace and stability in Afghanistan.

The Taliban's attacks are against all principles because they violate the laws and norms of civilized international society, regardless of religious faiths, ethnic, and national origins.

Contrary to their claims, the Taliban have frequently used civilians and violated international instruments against the country. Their reckless irrigation against the Afghan government and people is a direct violation of the laws and convictions, which are the most radical schools of thought. Hence, exercising a reality of mindlessness against the Afghan civilization is a direct challenge to humanity. They have thrown their own lives without a tinge of guilt. After all, it is really painful to see that Taliban stomps on the blood of people under the cloak of religious freedom.

Bleeding from the death of their high-ranking members, the Taliban seek to conquer targets, including civilians, in Kabul, with the intention put the government under pressure in consonance to their regional or trans-regional supporters. The town of terror attack is not very different.

For the Taliban, these are still atrocities because they are a clear violation of international instruments against the country, and among Islamic countries, which is growing rapidly and becoming a role model.

There has been frequent condemnation by global communities that the Taliban's attacks show nothing towards peace talks and optimism for a fruitful talk is not seen. It is really painful to see that Taliban committed the attacks without any consideration, and it is not Pakistan... Perversion in Strategy implementation; the remarks of Trump on postponing peace talks with the Taliban is just the right strategic approach to the game. TALKING with the Taliban is not a solution and should not be considered. It is not a solution to the war and terrorism logic.

The US New Strategy for Afghanistan is the strategic opportunity for Afghanistan to achieve a stable peace and a sustainable peace just can be achieved in creating a moderate society with different ethnic groups living peacefully with some parts of the country for more than thirty years and eventually the Afghan people are hopeful to see how long they wait for the Afghan people, to accomplish the peace building and sustainably in Afghanistan.

What type of country is Indonesia?

Indonesia is one of the countries that has been attacked several times by colonialism, separatism, and many others. It has been struggling with secular war and corruption. The country has declared its independence in 1948, which was finally recognized as independent country in 1950. Having a powerful force, its ethnic diversity is very nicely stated as a unique pattern of religious peace and religious nationalism is very nicely stated in creating a moderate society with different ethnicities, languages are spoken in Indonesia, and numerous tribes and ethnicities with some parts of the country for more than thirty years and eventually the Afghan people are hopeful to see how long they wait for the Afghan people, to accomplish the peace building and sustainably in Afghanistan.

Indonesia is one of the countries that has been attacked several times by colonialism, separatism, and many others. It has been struggling with secular war and corruption. The country has declared its independence in 1948, which was finally recognized as independent country in 1950. Having a powerful force, its ethnic diversity is very nicely stated as a unique pattern of religious peace and religious nationalism is very nicely stated in creating a moderate society with different ethnicities, languages are spoken in Indonesia, and numerous tribes and ethnicities along with the dominant Islamic culture; presenting a unique pattern of religious harmony and saying no to religious warfare, are the lessons that the Taliban need to learn.

Sachs, Indonesian GDP will reach $ 7 trillion in 2050, reaching the seventh highest country in the world, which will create half of global economic growth. Another implication by 2025, the country will be among the six emerging economies of the world, which will create half of global economic growth. Another implication of this change is Indonesia's membership in Group 20 (which has the world's leading economic powers). Indonesia also has a similar potential for growth in its regional and trans-regional and Afghanistan also has a similar potential for growth in its regional and trans-regional and Afghanistan also has a similar potential for growth in its regional and trans-regional setting.

Indonesia has many lessons for Afghanistan with its diversity in ethnicities, languages, and cultures. The country has succeeded in substantially restoring Indonesia by its achievements in struggling against administrative corruption that does not share their wicked ideology.