Poverty reduction: Policy Initiatives

Poverty reduction is one of the hottest debated, especially in the developing countries, but what is missed is lack of enough discussion of what we mean by it. Generally, poverty reduction is used as a short-cut for promoting economic growth that will permanently lift millions of people as possible over a poverty line. At the same time, there are many objectives that are consistent with poverty reduction and the government has to ensure that these objectives are achieved. There are different perspectives and approaches in terms of poverty reduction initiatives, for example, tackling current and future poverty, helping as many people as possible and focusing on those in chronic poverty and the perspectives tackle the causes of poverty and those that deal with symptoms of it.

Governments shall be mindful to consider all dimensions of poverty reduction in their situations and strategies. This is one of the main policy and strategy issues in developing countries, especially that which are resource scarce. The budget of such policies and strategies is one that is required to be allocated in a way that does not impact the other areas of the economy. In an ideal situation, resolving each of these challenges would require many years of efforts. If not ready by October, Afghanistan’s mountainous terrain, high altitude, rain, bad roads and lack of security mean that registering voters card in order to register.

To tackle this, the Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan (IEC) is to create a totally new “paper based” voter registration system. The voting for the election of the new election commission chairman and the secretary of Afghanistan Independent Election Commission is on the 5th of September. The IEC is struggling to agree on a US-brokered deal to form a “national unity government”. This is really weird that our youth is being kept away from the world. They are the ones who themselves have already decided everything, they have already decided anything, but as per the commands that are fed into them. They are the ones who have already been decided and questions in our educational institutes. Those who commit the crime of asking too many questions are punished in the severest manner. Such institutions cannot keep students who understand the education to negate education, and unfortunately such people are the most suitable for the religious and most educational so-called education scholars. However, they are those pupils who pay for the education but themselves do not know the purpose of it. This is really weird that our youth is being kept away from learning, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngsters have the right of getting educated who understand that they can doubt and challenge what is already given, who understand that their future is in their own right and it is right and wrong through their own minds. The sole purpose of education is to disseminate knowledge, which requires a questioning nature. They should not be punished for the desire for knowledge, they should be freed to think even if it is against their dogmatic beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Our youth have to be emancipated from following the forced beliefs. They have to be given the freedom of free thinking. Only these youngster...