Khalilzad Resumes Afghan Peace Diplomacy

The State Department said the Trump administration’s Afghan team will return to Qatar on Sunday, will continue till Feb 28, when the chief US negotiator will return to Washington for consultations. Khalilzad will meet “our allies and partners to discuss mutual efforts to advance that goal and that people should be consulted in this”, Ghulam Farooq Nijrabi, a presidential candidate said.

The election observers, meanwhile, expressed concerns on the impact on the given scenario. “The people of Afghanistan have the right and power to decide whether they should adopt a new election system,” Ghulam Farooq Nijrabi, a presidential candidate said.

KABUL - US special envoy Zalmay Khalilzad has embarked on a new trip to several to push the Trump administration’s Afghan peace initiative.

KABUL - According to latest figures released by the Afghan Finance Commissio

Over $77mn Worth of Investment in the Country by Afghan Women Entrepreneurs

The businesses owned by women have created jobs for 77,000 people across the country.

The problems facing Afghan women entrepreneurs are the high cost of raw materials and lack of access to bigger markets for their products. (Farsad)

Peace Efforts Undermining July Presidential Elections: Watchdogs

The statement from the group said international donors should put pressure on the Afghan government until civilian casualties significantly decreased.

A statement said citizens in-deed suffered casualties to wars but in Afghanistan the casualties were of the people.

Recent security incidents in sev eral provinces showed there was a total disregard for civilian lives in Afghanistan, as part of a broader strategy followed at all, the CPAG believed.

The group strongly condemned civilian casualties, which it said showed the president’s and security forces’ disregard for the country’s citizens.

Meanwhile, Hasham Khan Alokozai, a senator from southern Helmand province, claimed 21 civilians had either been killed or wounded in nighttime operations. (The Daily Outlook)

Donors Urged to Tie Afghan Aid to Civilian Casualties

KABUL - The Czech Republic says it will follow the US forces exit Afghanistan as a result of a new agreement with the Taliban.

Czech Defense Minister Lubomir Metnar was quoted by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by the Pravo news agency as saying by.

In the wake of a US pullout, after the current negotiations with the Taliban, the Czech Republic will pull out its forces from Afghanistan in the wake of a US pullout. If the current negotiations with the Taliban are successful, the Afghan government should improve, the minister added. Should the US reduce the number of troops or withdraw all forces from Afghanistan, Metnar said they would also pull out, Metnar told the Prague Post. Around 340 Czech soldiers are currently based in Afghanistan as part of NATO Resolute Support mission to train and assist the Afghan security forces. (Facebook)

Czechs to Follow US Forces Exit Afghanistan

KABUL - The Czech Republic says it will follow the US forces exit Afghanistan as a result of a new agreement with the Taliban.

The statement said citizens in-deed suffered casualties to wars but in Afghanistan the casualties were of the people.

Recent security incidents in sev eral provinces showed there was a total disregard for civilian lives in Afghanistan, as part of a broader strategy followed at all, the CPAG believed.

The group strongly condemned civilian casualties, which it said showed the president’s and security forces’ disregard for the country’s citizens.

Meanwhile, Hasham Khan Alokozai, a senator from southern Helmand province, claimed 21 civilians had either been killed or wounded in nighttime operations. (The Daily Outlook)

Donors Urged to Tie Afghan Aid to Civilian Casualties

KABUL - The Czech Republic says it will follow the US forces exit Afghanistan as a result of a new agreement with the Taliban.

The statement said citizens in-deed suffered casualties to wars but in Afghanistan the casualties were of the people.

Recent security incidents in sev eral provinces showed there was a total disregard for civilian lives in Afghanistan, as part of a broader strategy followed at all, the CPAG believed.

The group strongly condemned civilian casualties, which it said showed the president’s and security forces’ disregard for the country’s citizens.

Meanwhile, Hasham Khan Alokozai, a senator from southern Helmand province, claimed 21 civilians had either been killed or wounded in nighttime operations. (The Daily Outlook)

Peace Efforts Undermining July Presidential Elections: Watchdogs

The statement said citizens in-deed suffered casualties to wars but in Afghanistan the casualties were of the people.

Recent security incidents in sev eral provinces showed there was a total disregard for civilian lives in Afghanistan, as part of a broader strategy followed at all, the CPAG believed.

The group strongly condemned civilian casualties, which it said showed the president’s and security forces’ disregard for the country’s citizens.

Meanwhile, Hasham Khan Alokozai, a senator from southern Helmand province, claimed 21 civilians had either been killed or wounded in nighttime operations. (The Daily Outlook)