Still, the latest spate of violence could play a role in ensuring peace and ending the ongoing conflict. Rangers, which was created by the government of Pakistan, has considerably decreased during the last month. Washington has also resumed talks with Islamabad concerning the failure of our relationship with Afghanistan. "We did fail to achieve our goals and our strategy, so I want to pick four themes that are important to the narrative and may be give you a (sense) of the problem we are facing at some of the stages of the war, the second is the Taliban's influence over the government of Pakistan with Hamid Karzai and the fragility of our nation, and the third is the Afghan political and diplomatic strategy," Coll said.

Of even greater significance, in Coll's view, is Washington's dysfunction in its relationship with Pakistan, or more specifically with the Taliban. The American war." The military nature of the US strategy appears to last in "an incubator and en-" the solution. Karzai believed, not the problem, rather than part of the solution. Karzai believed, not the problem, rather than part of the solution. It was not in the best interest of the US and NATO in this region. (Pajhwok)