President Orders Assistance for IDPs in eastern and northern Baghlan province

Mazar-I-Sharif – Laid off Afghan National Army (ANA) soldiers are demanding that their salaries be paid on time, according to an official who confirmed the information.

The former ANA soldiers said that they were laid off in 2017 and 2018 due to the withdrawal of US forces from Afghanistan. According to the official, more than 300 former ANA soldiers have been laid off in the province, and they are now demanding their salaries.

The official added that the former ANA soldiers have been struggling to make ends meet since they were laid off and that they are now seeking assistance from the government.

The official also said that the former ANA soldiers have tried to contact the Ministry of Defense and the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs, but they have not received any response.

The official further stated that the former ANA soldiers are facing financial difficulties and are unable to meet their basic needs due to the lack of income.

The official called on the government to take urgent action to address the situation of the former ANA soldiers and to pay them their salaries.
