KABUL - The commander of Afghan Air Force (AAF) general Mohammad Sharafuddin said that the AAF is planning to significantly increase air raids on the insurgents during the winter season. It will put the number of air attacks to the insurgent hideouts at 1,100 operations in different parts of the country for the past nine months.

Sharafuddin said that safety and security of the civilians is a priority. Offices of the ministry of interior have said that currently, winter operations are ongoing in 12 provinces where the security threats are the highest.

At least 18 people have been killed in a blast at a funeral ceremony in Jalalabad city of Nangarhar, officials confirmed.

KABUL - The National Unity Government (NUG) has promised introducing a new governor for northern Balkh province at all costs. About few days back, President Ashraf Ghani accepted Governor Atta Mohammad Noor’s resignation and announced Eng. Davod as his replacement.

However, Davod has not been formally installed so far. In the meantime, Noor has refused to accept the presidential decision, saying he had submitted his resignation last year based on certain conditions. Addressing public gatherings in recent days, Noor said he was still the governor of Balkh and would remain in that position in future as well.

A reliable governor source told Pajhwok Afghan News the government was committed to replacing Noor at all costs, and would remain in that position in future as well.

KABUL - Top government officials including President Ashraf Ghani, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abdullah Abdullah on Sunday strongly condemned a suicide blast at a funeral in the capital's eastern Nangarhar province.

Earlier in the day, 18 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide blast at the funeral prayer for a former government official in Jalalabad. Governor spokesman Attaullah Khogyani told Pajhwok Afghan News the suicide bombing took place south of Jalalabad City at the Muqam Khan compound.

He added the suicide blast took place at the funeral prayer of Gul Wali, former government official in Jalalabad city of Nangarhar, in a mosque. Hussain is the only breadwinner of his 10-member family and he hardly earns 50,000 Afghani a month as a mullah.

KABUL - A suicide attack at a funeral in the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad on Sunday killed at least 15 people and wounded 12, the governor’s spokesman said. Attaullah Khogyani, spokesman for the provincial governor, said the attacker had blown himself up as people gathered for the funeral of a former district governor at a cemetery in the city.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, which comes days after at least 41 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide attack on a Shi'ite cultural center in Kabul on Tuesday.

Islamic State claimed responsibility for that attack, one of the worst in the Afghan capital in months. Backed by intensive U.S. air strikes, Afghan forces have claimed growing success against the Taliban and other militant groups, including Islamic State, but attacks on civilian targets have continued, causing heavy casualties. (Reuters)

Noor will have to go; Dawood to take over soon

The Afghan and US officials are ready to launch operations anywhere in cooperation with the Afghan Air Force (AAF) general to gain from partnering with Pakistan’s notorious Haqqani terrorist network, it has been reported. The New York Times on Saturday reported that the administration of the President Donald Trump was “contemplating withholding” billions in aid over what it feels is Islamabad’s “continued failure” in helping counter terrorism in Afghanistan.

The report further adds that the administration believes Pakistan’s intransigence is signified by its “repeated refusal” to grant the United States access to a Haqqani network operative, who was allegedly captured by Pakistani forces during an October raid to free a Canadian-American family.

This comes as the US Vice President Mike Pence during his recent visit to Afghanistan reiterated Washington’s stance regarding the terror safe haven in Pakistan. He said, “For too long Pakistan has provided safe haven to the Taliban and many terrorist organizations, but these days are over. President Trump has put Pakistan on notice.”

As the President said, so I say. Pakistan has much to gain from partnering with the United States, and Pakistan must have much to lose by continuing to support the terrorist groups.”

He said, “The Afghan and US officials have long been insisting that the administration of the Taliban and the notorious Haqqani network... (More on P4)...

Blast at Funeral in Eastern Afghanistan Kills 18: Official

JALALABAD - A suicide attack at a funeral in the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad on Sunday killed at least 15 people and wounded 12, the governor’s spokesman said.

Attaullah Khogyani, spokesman for the provincial governor, said the attacker had blown himself up as people gathered for the funeral of a former district governor at a cemetery in the city.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, which comes days after at least 41 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide attack on a Shi’ite cultural center in Kabul on Tuesday.

Islamic State claimed responsibility for that attack, one of the worst in the Afghan capital in months. Backed by intensive U.S. air strikes, Afghan forces have claimed growing success against the Taliban and other militant groups, including Islamic State, but attacks on civilian targets have continued, causing heavy casualties. (Reuters)

Noor will have to go; Dawood to take over soon

KABUL - The National Unity Government (NUG) has promised introducing a new governor for northern Balkh province at all costs. About few days back, President Ashraf Ghani accepted Governor Atta Mohammad Noor’s resignation and announced Eng. Davod as his replacement.

However, Davod has not been formally installed so far. In the meantime, Noor has refused to accept the presidential decision, saying he had submitted his resignation last year based on certain conditions. Addressing public gatherings in recent days, Noor said he was still the governor of Balkh and would remain in that position in future as well.

A reliable governor source told Pajhwok Afghan News the government was committed to replacing Noor at all costs, and would remain in that position in future as well.

KABUL - Top government officials including President Ashraf Ghani, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abdullah Abdullah on Sunday strongly condemned a suicide blast at a funeral in the capital's eastern Nangarhar province.

Earlier in the day, 18 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide blast at the funeral prayer for a former government official in Jalalabad. Governor spokesman Attaullah Khogyani told Pajhwok Afghan News the suicide bombing took place south of Jalalabad City at the Muqam Khan compound.

He added the suicide blast took place at the funeral prayer of Gul Wali, former government official in Jalalabad city of Nangarhar, in a mosque. Hussain is the only breadwinner of his 10-member family and he hardly earns 50,000 Afghani a month as a mullah.

KABUL - A suicide attack at a funeral in the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad on Sunday killed at least 15 people and wounded 12, the governor’s spokesman said. Attaullah Khogyani, spokesman for the provincial governor, said the attacker had blown himself up as people gathered for the funeral of a former district governor at a cemetery in the city.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, which comes days after at least 41 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide attack on a Shi’ite cultural center in Kabul on Tuesday.

Islamic State claimed responsibility for that attack, one of the worst in the Afghan capital in months. Backed by intensive U.S. air strikes, Afghan forces have claimed growing success against the Taliban and other militant groups, including Islamic State, but attacks on civilian targets have continued, causing heavy casualties. (Reuters)

Noor will have to go; Dawood to take over soon

The Afghan and US officials are ready to launch operations anywhere in cooperation with the Afghan Air Force (AAF) general to gain from partnering with Pakistan’s notorious Haqqani terrorist network, it has been reported. The New York Times on Saturday reported that the administration of the President Donald Trump was “contemplating withholding” billions in aid over what it feels is Islamabad’s “continued failure” in helping counter terrorism in Afghanistan.

The report further adds that the administration believes Pakistan’s intransigence is signified by its “repeated refusal” to grant the United States access to a Haqqani network operative, who was allegedly captured by Pakistani forces during an October raid to free a Canadian-American family.

This comes as the US Vice President Mike Pence during his recent visit to Afghanistan reiterated Washington’s stance regarding the terror safe haven in Pakistan. He said, “For too long Pakistan has provided safe haven to the Taliban and many terrorist organizations, but these days are over. President Trump has put Pakistan on notice.”

As the President said, so I say. Pakistan has much to gain from partnering with the United States, and Pakistan must have much to lose by continuing to support the terrorist groups.”

He said, “The Afghan and US officials have long been insisting that the administration of the Taliban and the notorious Haqqani network... (More on P4)...

Blast at Funeral in Eastern Afghanistan Kills 18: Official

JALALABAD - A suicide attack at a funeral in the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad on Sunday killed at least 15 people and wounded 12, the governor’s spokesman said.

Attaullah Khogyani, spokesman for the provincial governor, said the attacker had blown himself up as people gathered for the funeral of a former district governor at a cemetery in the city.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, which comes days after at least 41 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide attack on a Shi’ite cultural center in Kabul on Tuesday.

Islamic State claimed responsibility for that attack, one of the worst in the Afghan capital in months. Backed by intensive U.S. air strikes, Afghan forces have claimed growing success against the Taliban and other militant groups, including Islamic State, but attacks on civilian targets have continued, causing heavy casualties. (Reuters)

Noor will have to go; Dawood to take over soon

KABUL - The National Unity Government (NUG) has promised introducing a new governor for northern Balkh province at all costs. About few days back, President Ashraf Ghani accepted Governor Atta Mohammad Noor’s resignation and announced Eng. Davod as his replacement.

However, Davod has not been formally installed so far. In the meantime, Noor has refused to accept the presidential decision, saying he had submitted his resignation last year based on certain conditions. Addressing public gatherings in recent days, Noor said he was still the governor of Balkh and would remain in that position in future as well.

A reliable governor source told Pajhwok Afghan News the government was committed to replacing Noor at all costs, and would remain in that position in future as well.

KABUL - Top government officials including President Ashraf Ghani, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abdullah Abdullah on Sunday strongly condemned a suicide blast at a funeral in the capital's eastern Nangarhar province.

Earlier in the day, 18 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide blast at the funeral prayer for a former government official in Jalalabad. Governor spokesman Attaullah Khogyani told Pajhwok Afghan News the suicide bombing took place south of Jalalabad City at the Muqam Khan compound.

He added the suicide blast took place at the funeral prayer of Gul Wali, former governor official in Jalalabad city of Nangarhar, in a mosque. Hussain is the only breadwinner of his 10-member family and he hardly earns 50,000 Afghani a month as a mullah.

KABUL - A suicide attack at a funeral in the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad on Sunday killed at least 15 people and wounded 12, the governor’s spokesman said. Attaullah Khogyani, spokesman for the provincial governor, said the attacker had blown himself up as people gathered for the funeral of a former district governor at a cemetery in the city.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, which comes days after at least 41 people were killed and 13 others injured in a suicide attack on a Shi’ite cultural center in Kabul on Tuesday.

Islamic State claimed responsibility for that attack, one of the worst in the Afghan capital in months. Backed by intensive U.S. air strikes, Afghan forces have claimed growing success against the Taliban and other militant groups, including Islamic State, but attacks on civilian targets have continued, causing heavy casualties. (Reuters)