KABUL - The Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MoFA) on Thursday appointed four new ambassadors including two as new Afghan ambassadors to the United States and South Korea.

Jawed previously served as adviser to Chief Executive and has full support of the party and this backing will come into play when I go to talk with President Ghani. In this process, Noor has thanked Naqibi for supporting his talks with President Ghani. "The situation of the orchard, said they had maintained the orchard and encouraged people to send slogans chanting at a rally that if Russia was to do the same in Moscow, "it would be devastating for Afghanistan. Only then will our talks come to an end," he said.

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

In response to his own question, he said this was a matter of concern for Russia adding that if Russia was to do the same in Moscow, "it would be devastating for Afghanistan. Only then will our talks come to an end," he said.

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

Office Abdullah Abdullah was Afghanistan's am- bassador to the U.S. According to the MoFA spokesman Ahmad Shokouh, the ambassador said that the Taliban had already informed Afghanistan's minimum council about the warning in an email.

"We are standing by the fact that the new government will have to deal with the situation," he said, adding that there were no issues of force or the need for military intervention to bring the Taliban to the negotiating table.

Samir Kabulov, a senior diplomat who was the Afghan ambassador to the United States from 2002 to 2005, said in an interview with Voice of America (VOA) that the Afghan government should not expect Moscow to play a significant role in the current negotiations with the Taliban.

"This infrastructure as well as their access to so many bases, not only in Russia but also in Turkey, the U.S has only one army base in the Russian Federation," he said.

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

Samir Kabulov, a senior diplomat who was the Afghan ambassador to the United States from 2002 to 2005, said in an interview with Voice of America (VOA) that the Afghan government should not expect Moscow to play a significant role in the current negotiations with the Taliban.

"This infrastructure as well as their access to so many bases, not only in Russia but also in Turkey, the U.S has only one army base in the Russian Federation," he said.

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

"Why are they doing that after all this?" he asked. "Russia never tolerated this."

Samir Kabulov, a senior diplomat who was the Afghan ambassador to the United States from 2002 to 2005, said in an interview with Voice of America (VOA) that the Afghan government should not expect Moscow to play a significant role in the current negotiations with the Taliban.

"This infrastructure as well as their access to so many bases, not only in Russia but also in Turkey, the U.S has only one army base in the Russian Federation," he said.