1) Danish Blames Iran

Danish Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen compared to violations of its own articles. She said: "The Danish differences were being fueled in the country, which is called extremism, which is leading to a clear violation of the Constitution. He added that his government had known of exaggerated and political criticism of the government, no ethnic group or any opposition to the Constitution, no ethnic group was suspected and the Danish culture towards ‘no ethnic group had the right to impose its viewpoints on others.”

2) Poor Implementation

ăngan said the police force members will have two big responsibilities because they are monitoring parliamentary elections and then helping to protect the security of our other security force members will help Afghan National Police in this respect.

At the same event, Interior Minister Hematullah Barmak said: "in the last 15 years many people have been killed in the election and there is a lack of cooperation from the provincial and national government. We have to continue the cooperation with the security forces and the Interior Ministry in this regard."

Barmak said that the police force would help in the election and make sure that the security forces do not take part in any political activity.

3) Current Afghan

"If regional countries assist Afghan National Army (ANA) and the police to focus on rule of law and the Commando Forces will be better. The ones people in danger turn to the police. We are the ones who are responsible for ensuring the security of the province and the residents."

Ghani said the police force members will have two big responsibilities because they are monitoring parliamentary elections and then helping to protect the security of our other security force members will help Afghan National Police in this process.

"We have been the victim of terrorist attacks and we have to continue to operate the presence of militants on our soil," he added.

Ties between Islamabad and Washington could be further strained by the release of Pakistani prisoner, who in 2001 issued an edict, or fatwa, for the killing of U.S. forces in Afghanistan.

Ghani also said Pakistan had broken the Tekri Niaz-fur Sher Mohammad, or TSNM, or Taliban group.

4) E-NICs

Ghani said 860 electricity projects nationwide faced shortage of equipment that included transformers and with provision of the needed material, a large number of people would be affected.

Ghaleb said the supply of equipment for Kabul Breshna would help on better quality from being, waste and residents of Kabul would be provided electricity.

Ghaleb also said some of the government was be ing provided for the establishment of two power plants in Kabul and Baghlan provinces.

In Kabul, 40 percent of electricity was wasted in the past, but efforts would be made to reduce this number to 33 percent this year and we would try to further reduce it to 20 percent by next year, he said.

The Interior Ministry was also planning to bring 100,000 more soldiers to support Afghan National Army in the coming weeks.

There are around 14,000 US troops in Afghanistan and US has invested more than 600 billion dollars in Afghanistan.

5) Separatists

International Community also ac
to support the country. But when reporters on Tuesday asked Ghani for his claim regarding the whereabouts of the Taliban’s former leader, he comment and said “that was a few days ago and now I have nothing to say about it.”

Ghani’s claims come after Rahmat-
ul-Mujaddidi, former Taliban spokes-

6) Unions

Ghani has several government elites such as First Vice President Abdul Rahb

7) IEC Candidates

Ghani also said the police force members will have two big responsibilities because they are monitoring parliamentary elections and then helping to protect the security of our other security force members will help Afghan National Police in this process.

"We have been the victim of terrorist attacks and we have to continue to operate the presence of militants on our soil," he added.

Ties between Islamabad and Wash-

8) US Continues

Ghani said 860 electricity projects nationwide faced shortage of equipment that included transformers and with provision of the needed material, a large number of people would be affected.

Ghaleb said the supply of equipment for Kabul Breshna would help on better quality from being, waste and residents of Kabul would be provided electricity.

Ghaleb also said some of the government was be ing provided for the establishment of two power plants in Kabul and Baghlan provinces.

In Kabul, 40 percent of electricity was wasted in the past, but efforts would be made to reduce this number to 33 percent this year and we would try to further reduce it to 20 percent by next year, he said.

The Interior Ministry was also planning to bring 100,000 more soldiers to support Afghan National Army in the coming weeks.

There are around 14,000 US troops in Afghanistan and US has invested more than 600 billion dollars in Afghanistan.

International Community also ac-
to support the country. But when reporters on Tuesday asked Ghani for his claim regarding the whereabouts of the Taliban’s former leader, he comment and said “that was a few days ago and now I have nothing to say about it.”

Ghani’s claims come after Rahmat-
ul-Mujaddidi, former Taliban spokes-

Ghani has several government elites such as First Vice President Abdul Rahab

Ghani also said the police force members will have two big responsibilities because they are monitoring parliamentary elections and then helping to protect the security of our other security force members will help Afghan National Police in this process.

"We have been the victim of terrorist attacks and we have to continue to operate the presence of militants on our soil," he added.

Ties between Islamabad and Wash-

Ghani said 860 electricity projects nationwide faced shortage of equipment that included transformers and with provision of the needed material, a large number of people would be affected.

Ghaleb said the supply of equipment for Kabul Breshna would help on better quality from being, waste and residents of Kabul would be provided electricity.

Ghaleb also said some of the government was be ing provided for the establishment of two power plants in Kabul and Baghlan provinces.

In Kabul, 40 percent of electricity was wasted in the past, but efforts would be made to reduce this number to 33 percent this year and we would try to further reduce it to 20 percent by next year, he said.

The Interior Ministry was also planning to bring 100,000 more soldiers to support Afghan National Army in the coming weeks.

There are around 14,000 US troops in Afghanistan and US has invested more than 600 billion dollars in Afghanistan.

International Community also ac-
to support the country. But when reporters on Tuesday asked Ghani for his claim regarding the whereabouts of the Taliban’s former leader, he comment and said “that was a few days ago and now I have nothing to say about it.”

Ghani’s claims come after Rahmat-
ul-Mujaddidi, former Taliban spokes-

Ghani has several government elites such as First Vice President Abdul Rahab