The Endless Sufferings of Human Family

By Hujatulzia Zia

One's right to life, which is a fundamental right, has been violated widely mainly as a result of war and violence and one suffers severely from famine and cold. Militant fighters show no respect to the International Humanitarian Law. It has become a blood of suffering that includes women and children, indiscriminately. Violation of human rights has generated a series of headlines. Violence and bloodshed continues unabated all around the world. The result is the sudden rise of suffering. Annual reports about civilian casualties are highly shocking. Women and children bear the brunt of wars in that-terrible war. They have been killed in blood.

Following the UN report – in which the masses were massacred in the worst possible way – the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was approved to protect the pain and anguish of human families and put an end to deadly conflicts through pointing out the rights and dignity of human beings. The UNCHR says, "Recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family is the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world." Following the deadly conflicts in the history of human societies, all nations came to the conclusion that recognizing the inherent rights and dignity of human beings is the cornerstone of peace and progress in the world. People's life should be held in respect and no drop of blood is supposed to be shed. Similarly, the natural dignity of people should be respected by the public. To put it succinctly, all moral, all persons, all individuals and nations will have to treat one another with the same regard.

Meanwhile, exercising tolerance toward one another is the most important accomplishment and presences of human beings. The ongoing violence and bloodshed are deeply rooted in intolerance toward others, intolerance on the grounds of color, race, and creed. The radical militants spread the blood of people out of the inherent rights of human beings and the ideal of tolerance or brotherhood. They are not able to accept people as they are and seek to forfeit their own ideology upon the other. In short, there will not be a peace unless all individuals exercise tolerance. Superiority and discrimination are the reason behind the violation of human rights. A number of individuals claim religious superiority and hold others in contempt. They say they do not believe in "inherent dignity" of all mankind and consider the others inferior. Thus, the result of such belief is that conflict will emerge. Down the line, the human rights and dignity are attacked strongly important by international instruments, violation of human rights occurs widely. One of the reasons of their violation is that the struggle of their freedom, the next is to treated harshly or killed simply in that way that they cannot be an oxygen for human societies. Therefore, the human rights of people are violated in one way or another. According to a recent report, the UN describes human rights situation in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) raising concerns about the levels of injustice, repression against foreign workers and discrimination of women in the Gall States. "UAE authorities regularly subject those who violate their restrictions to torture, enforced disappearance, arbitrary detention, torture and ill-treatment."
