Kabul, Islamabad to Work on Prisoner Swap Mechanism

KABUL - Afghanistan and Pakistan have agreed to work out a mechanism for exchanging prisoners, the Afghan ambassador said. The mechanism will benefit prisoners who have completed their jail terms or languish in prison despite getting bail.

Shukrullah Atif Mashal said the prisoner swap would start from the Taliban minister Hafez Mohibullah in Peshawar. “We are here to discuss the detentions of former prisoners, the diplomat promised.

Earlameron俱ad a query about the detention of former Taliban minister Hafez Mohibullah in Peshawar. “We are here to work for peace in Afghanistan," he said. In a brief chat with reporters, he vowed issuance of the Loyal treatment to prisoners. Kabul would facilitate Pakistani officials inspecting jails in Afghanistan to identify Pakistani prisoners, the diplomatic promise.

KABUL - Ambassador Khalilzad said that he had met with Afghan officials in Kabul this morning to discuss peace and security. He praised Afghan security forces, saying their role is vital as we move towards peace. The following quotes from the discussion may be attributed to Special Representative Khalilzad from the session:

On Taliban Engagement with the Afghan Government:

“The road to peace will require the Afghan government to sit with other Afghan forces, including the government. There is a consensus among all the regional partners on this point.”

Reaction to Taliban Statements:

“If the Taliban want to talk, we can talk. If they want to fight, we can fight. We hope that the Taliban want to make peace. But if they do not choose to come to the table, if they choose to continue fighting, the United States will stand with the Afghan people and the Afghan government and support them.”
