The Clash between Radicals and Liberals

On the contrary, a number of individuals deem democracy against their mindset and deep-seated traditions claiming that they treat them at stake. They are kind of hostile attitude towards democracy namely as a social norm.

Some of the major security problems currently confronting the nation that has to be identified include: regional and international conflicts, political and religious factionalism, ethnic and religious agitations, intrastate and international disputes, ethnic, political, and religious divisions and differences. These challenges individually and collectively constitute threats to peace, security, and development of the country. Undoubtedly, they have implications for the continuity and safety of the nation's nascent democracy. On the other hand we also need to explore the question of how democracy can itself be deliberately constructed as a positive response to these challenges.
