KABUL - Master leg-spinner Rashid Khan says he has "changed everything" in the country over five days and nights and nothing brings a smile to people as good a display by their national team. In an interview released on Tuesday, the spin maestro said Afghanistan had come a long way since their first appearance in the 2010 T20 World Cup.

Rashid Khan said the rise of the sport had given people back home something to smile about.

"It feels good. People back home love cricket," he said in the panel interview, according to the Cricket website. "It has changed everything in the country in the last five or six years. The young generation... everyone's following cricket, they love cricket. It means a lot that Afghanistan is participating in the World Cup.

The Afghan players told give 100 percent in every match and every competition, he said, adding the team did their best to give something to the fans.

"We... (Mohammad Nabi, Mujeeb Ur Rehman) – just try and give our best in each and every game. We all need to adapt and experience. Can't wait for it." (More on P4, 32)
