The Evil of Insecurity Persists

By Hujjatullah Zia

A ticle is addressing the people in Afghanistan. While the title of the article is "The Evil of Insecurity Persists," it seems to be discussing the challenges and issues faced by the Afghan population, including the ongoing war against terrorism, the role of the Afghan government, and the need for international support.

The text mentions the need for "lasting peace and order" and the "reconciliation process" to be pursued. It highlights the challenges faced by the Afghan government in maintaining stability and security in the face of ongoing conflict. The article also mentions the role of international organizations and the importance of international support in addressing the needs of the Afghan people.

The text further discusses the "regional dissatisfaction and ambiguities" and the "increasing difficulties." It notes the need for the international community to "increasing the support of international community." The text also mentions the "difficult expectations" and the "truth about the situation."

The article concludes by emphasizing the importance of international support and cooperation in addressing the challenges faced by Afghanistan.