Taliban Don’t Agree on Responsible Withdrawal of Foreign Forces: Nadery

KABUL - Chairman of the Independent Administrative Reform & Civil Service Commission (IARCSC) Nader Nadery who is Senior Advisor to the President and Human Rights Commissioner, twitted: “The Taliban has refused to recognize and respect Afghanistan’s current international commitments, especially those commitments pertaining to women’s rights. We hope these would be subject of discussions and agreement in negotiations with foreign parties. According to Nadery, the Taliban did not agree on call for a responsible withdrawal of foreign forces. They do not agree on denouncing and ousting foreign fighters or terrorists. He thanked Germany and Qatar for hosting peace talks among Afghans and the Taliban. (Pajhwok)

Nadery pointed out that Germans and Qatar would host the conference in a bid to help the Afghan peace process.
