Quote of the Day
Leadership
Leadership is a way of thinking, a way of acting and, most importantly, a way of communicating.

Peace Should Be Inclusive

Peaceful Afghanistan requires an inclusive peace process that is based on the principle that all Afghans, regardless of ethnicity, religion, or place of origin, should be represented in the decision-making process. Peace should be inclusive and it should involve all parties to the conflict.

MOSCOW - Russia supports the results of the intra-Afghan meeting in Doha and hopes that it would lay the foundation for the future reconciliation agreement in Afghanistan, the Russian Foreign Ministry’s official spokeswoman, Maria Zakharova, said in a statement.

"Russia supports the results of the Second Intra-Afghan Dialogue Conference held in Doha on July 7-8; reads the statement posted on the ministry’s official website. “It was finalized by a continuation of the conversation between representatives of a broad range of Afghanistan’s socio-political forces, including the armed opposition, which was started last February, and is aimed at launching a peace process in that country as soon as possible.”

"We are satisfied that the participants at the Doha meeting adopted a final statement indicating their intention to move towards an intra-Afghan peace,” Zakharova said.

Moscow has repeatedly stressed that the inter-Afghan dialogue “reflects the principle of an Afghan-led and Afghan-owned peace process, as it would be implemented in a way that meets the interests of all Afghans”.

KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani on Wednesday at the 5th Annual Anti-Corruption Conference said that now is the time for peace and that the opportunity is only now.

"There can be no peace every day, but this is the time of peace because conditions here have been provided and should be used extensively. If this opportunity is lost, it will be a huge responsibility," Ghani said. "Peace must be inclusive and it should involve all parties." Ghani warned that going back is not acceptable to the nation and “we will only move forward.”

Ghani also expressed concerns over security forces casualties and said that this shows that the war price is very heavy. Therefore, talks between government and the Taliban should happen.

Ghani added that the war price is clear and we don’t know then we won’t take necessary decisions clearly and with courage.

"It is necessary that we should know the war price is clear and we don’t know then we won’t take necessary decisions clearly and with courage. We should take place between the government and the Taliban, because we are the two sides of the war," Ghani said.

KABUL - The U.S. Special Representative for Afghanistan Reconciliation, Zalmay Khalilzad, left Doha for Beijing on Tuesday afternoon to Washington amid extensive talks with the Taliban.

Khalilzad is spearheading the Trump administration’s push for a peace and eventual withdrawal of troops from the war-torn country.

"I had a meeting with the Taliban this morning. Headed to China now and then will return to Washington to report and consult on the Afg-

Khalilzad claimed substantive progress was made during these negotiations on all four key points namely the counter-terrorism assurances, troop withdrawal, participation in intra-Afghan dialogue and negotiations, and permanent and comprehensive ceasefire.
