Afghan-American Pilot Meets Kabul Students

KABUL - Shaesta Waiz addressed schoolchildren Wednesday and encouraged them to follow their dreams through hard work and perseverance.

Shaesta Waiz, an Afghan-American pilot who landed in Kabul on Monday during a round-the-world solo flight met with a number of girls in Kabul in Wash, said the group has had volunteers for the past 15 years but now has a golden opportunity to use resources on hand to utilize their potential.

She also called on Afghan women and girls to fight for their rights in society.

Throughout her journey so far, Waiz has met with thousands of women and girls and encouraged them to follow their dreams through hard work and perseverance.

On Tuesday, she was bestowed the Ambassador of Peace title at an event organized by government.

"If you had the opportunity to become a pilot, I know that all of you would go (to school) and study. I come a pilot, I know that all of you..." she said.

"We are alarmed by recent measures adopted by the government in the field of education, and consider it as a violation of the basic principles of the Constitution of the Islamic Republic of Iran," the statement added.

The statement added, "We are alarmed by recent measures adopted by the government in the field of education, and consider it as a violation of the basic principles of the Constitution of the Islamic Republic of Iran."

"It is a commitment to address the problems of the poor, boost development of five cities, expand electrification..." The statement added that the package would help Afghanistan promote economic growth and social development.

The statement added that the package would help Afghanistan promote economic growth and social development.

KABUL - The Office of the President, ARC/Pol, said the meeting of the commander in chief of the armed forces chaired by the president Sunday focused on the security situation of northern and northeastern provinces of the country, including Takhar, Badakhshan, Faryab, Kunduz, and Uruzgan.

A statement by the ARC/Pol said the meeting focused on the security situation of the northern provinces and the relevant authorities were instructed to take necessary measures for the betterment of the security.

The statement further added that necessary decisions were also taken regarding the situation of the northern Faryab province but no further details were disclosed.

Regarding the Durand Line, the meeting also discussed the violations along the Durand Line and special emphasis was made on further reform in the police media.

Both are under investigation by the New South Wales supreme court judge Paul Brereton for the unlawful killings said to have occurred in Afghanistan in 2012 and 2013 involving the deaths of two children.

Terrance has also launched the fencing and construction work along the Durand Line despite the objections by the Afghan authorities and recent clashes mainly having links with the dispute regarding the line.

"I'm not aware of any truth in a memo from U.S. homeland security about the evacuation of Afghans," Sanders was asked by one reporter whether the mid-July deadline to begin evacuating Afghans stood, and if it had been widened to include all Afghans at risk. Sanders said: "I know that there is a plan to roll that out. I don't know the specifics of that plan."

"We will continue with our efforts to discuss and finalize a new strategy that meets the changing needs of our nation," Sanders said.

KABUL - A number of Taliban residents said they will continue their protest until government responds to their demands.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"I would like to do that," she added.

"I know that they have a plan to roll that out. I don't know the specifics of that plan," Sanders said.

"We will close the road and we are here until our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.

"We do not want to be sacrificed for drugs, drug smuggling or for media groups. They attacked a village today with heavy and light weapons," said Mohammad Zaman, a resident of Chah Ab. "We will close the road and stop our demands are heard by government - if there is a government," said Mavlawi Namilal, a resident of the district.