MAZAR-I-SHARIF - US envoy envoy to Afghanistan John R. Bass On Tuesday met with former governor Atta Mohammad and discussed with him Daesh or so-called Islamic State activities in the northern region of the country and the upcoming elections.
Now, the former governor of Balkh province and current secretary of lumati-Islami Afghani-stan, in a statement on the official Facebook page said he and the US ambassador talked about the recent unrest and presence of Daesh in the north as well as transparency in elections.
Now stressed transparent elections which he called the only way to steer the country out of the ongoing problems. However, nothing was mentioned from the US ambassador side in the meeting.

KABUL - British Embassy Kabul has launched the second phase of the “Girls Education Challenge”. Programme in Afghanistan, investing $80 million to ensure marginalised Afghan girls can access quality education, a statement said on Tuesday.
This phase of the programme, in partnership with USAID, helps girls to continue to the next phase of their education, by removing the barriers that cause them to drop out. It will reach out 300,000 children in remote or vulnerable communities, ensuring 90,000 girls are given the opportunity to continue with quality education or training, says the statement.
Following $75 million investment in the first phase of the “Girls Education Challenge” programme which helped over 300,000 girls across primary schooling, this second phase will train a further 1,000 female teachers, and will use community based education to allow children in remote locations, or children affected by poverty, conflict or displacement, to learn literacy, numeracy and skills for life.
British Ambassador Sir Nicholas Kay, said, “I’m delighted to launch the next phase of the Girls Education Challenge programme, which focuses on access to quality learning for the most marginalised Afghan girls. Giving girls a chance of schooling will help unlock Afghan-i stan’s potential...

LASHKARGAH - A statement from the 215th Military Corps said the security forces raided a Taliban jail in Musa Qala district late on Tuesday night.

It added 35 civilians, 15 policemen, four ANA personnel and two doctors were fired as a consequence of the raid. The security forces suffered no northern Helmand province, the military said on Tuesday.

At least 45 people, including security personnel, have been released from Taliban’s captivity in southern Helmand province, the military said on Tuesday.

Taliban have were still in the area after transferring the freed people to the Maiwand military base. Taliban have not yet commented on the raid.
