Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Son of Afghan Taliban Leader Dies Carrying Out Suicide Attack

PESHAWAR - The son of Taliban leader Mullah Hafizullah Ahmadi died on Thursday carrying out a suicide attack in the province of Helmand in southern Afghanistan, one of the insurgent movement's main strongholds. The younger Ahmadi, 23, was killed along with another seven people in the attack, which was claimed by the Taliban.

They want the authorities concerned to avoid negligence in this regard. The new report by the State Department further strengthens the claims made by the Afghan officials regarding the presence of the safe havens of the Taliban and Haqqani terrorist network inside the Pakistani territory.

About 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house. Among 90 to 100 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.

Around 350 to 400 individuals have been employed in the secretariat of the lower house without passing the legal procedure, Hamayon alleged.