The Vulnerability of Afghan Civilians to Escalated Violence

By Hajjatlulah Zia

The surged in militancy has been heavy recently in Afghanistan. Many Afghan civilians and soldiers have already been killed. As a result of the Taliban's attacks, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.

However, Afghanistan has left a check on past behind. The civil un, Taliban's regime and the post-Taliban period are significant milestones in our history. For the first time in Afghanistan, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.

However, Afghanistan has left a check on past behind. The civil un, Taliban's regime and the post-Taliban period are significant milestones in our history. For the first time in Afghanistan, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.

However, Afghanistan has left a check on past behind. The civil un, Taliban's regime and the post-Taliban period are significant milestones in our history. For the first time in Afghanistan, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.

However, Afghanistan has left a check on past behind. The civil un, Taliban's regime and the post-Taliban period are significant milestones in our history. For the first time in Afghanistan, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.

However, Afghanistan has left a check on past behind. The civil un, Taliban's regime and the post-Taliban period are significant milestones in our history. For the first time in Afghanistan, people's rights and liberty were trampled upon to a great extent. Life was highly cheap and the people were control. Many people thought that the Taliban had not only destroyed religious tenets and ethical code but also international law. They persisted only in their dogmatic ideology - which they did considered on the people of their race, sex, and color. After all, articles of war and humanitarian law were never considered, therefore, women, children and war prisoners were not treated as valuable, but only able human rights and liberty.