GERMANY TO RESUME DEPORTATION FlIGHTS TO AFGHANISTAN

KABUL - The administration of Chancellor Angela Merkel plans to resume deportation flights to Afghanistan as soon as next week, German media reported on Thursday.

Failed asylum-seekers from Afghanistan could be sent back to their country weeks after Berlin suspended the deportation process in the wake of a string of deadly attacks in Kabul. NDE and Der Spiegel reported a new deportation flight to Kabul would take off in hours. However, official confirmation of the reports was not immediately available.

The German government's policy on deporting refugees to Afghani-stan has lately drawn criticism due to widespread concerns in the western-country.
