UN Chief Calls on World to Back Paris Climate Deal

NEW YORK – UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres on Tuesday urged all leaders of government, business, and civil society to back the Paris Climate Deal and take action to slow down global warming.

And in his final speech on the eve of UNGA, he promised that he will inten- sify his efforts in the coming year, push for its implementation, and provide a support network for the world.

"The Paris pledges are histor- ical but do not yet go far enough to limit temperature rises, and will fall 2 degrees and as close as possible to 1.5 degrees," said Guterres in an address at New York University.

"So we must do our utmost to engage in practical work," said Guterres, who said he would do everything possible to ensure that the 2018 election campaigns are carried out in strict adherence to the Constitution. "Anyone en- titled to run, anyone who holds the relevant proce- dures prescribed by law, can and will participate in the election, and stay the course." (Yin Hua)

Russia Ready to Cooperate with European Partners to Fight Terrorism: Putin

MOSCOW - Russia is ready to cooperate with its European partners to fight terrorism, for which all efforts need to be concerted efforts, Russian President Vladimir Putin said. Although it is difficult for Russia to be called a "white horse" among its European partners due to their differences in politics, the country is ready to cooperate with them, Putin said in an interview published on Tuesday. "We need to work on the dialogues, we need to conduct a specific dialogue with Le Figaro newspaper to cooperate with them, conduct a dialogue with them and as close as possible to 1.5 degrees Celsius.
