June 05, 2016

available when addressing current and emerging threats and as a measure to balance the threat.

Albania

Albanian residents said the construction of the road was a priority for their country. They said the inaugurations of the dam and the new road will benefit the entire population of Albania. The road is expected to connect the two countries to help both mutual economic and cultural exchanges and as well as maintain international and regional peace and prosperity, the Albanian government said.

Algeria

President Abdelaziz Bouteflika said the infrastructure projects were part of the country’s plan to modernize the economy and create jobs. He also said the projects would help the country overcome the challenges it faces due to its limited access to the Mediterranean Sea.

 Algeria

The government has so far appointed 15 former key Al-Qaeda leaders to the new cabinet, including former leaders of the Al-Qaeda affiliates in the Gulf of Aden region, which were recently defeated by the government forces.

 Mali

The Malian government said it has arrested 12 suspected Al-Qaeda militants in a raid on a suspected terrorist camp in Timbuktu.

 Nigeria

The Nigerian government has arrested four suspected Al-Qaeda militants in the country’s northern state of Borno.

 Pakistan

The Pakistani government has arrested four suspected Al-Qaeda militants in the country’s northwestern province of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.

 Somalia

The Somali government has arrested four suspected Al-Qaeda militants in the country’s southern region of Lower Shabelle.

 Sudan

The Sudanese government has arrested four suspected Al-Qaeda militants in the country’s eastern state of Blue Nile.

 Yemen

The Yemeni government has arrested four suspected Al-Qaeda militants in the country’s southern province of Al-Mahweet.

The secretary of state also met senior leaders from NATO’s Resolute Support mission and the US embassy in Kabul. In a meeting with the secretary of state, the leaders discussed ways to support the Afghan government as it faces security challenges.

President Ashraf Ghani of Afghanistan has said that the government is committed to ensuring the rule of law in the country. In a statement released on Saturday, Ghani said the government is working to create a Just Afghanistan, where the rule of law is upheld and the rights of all Afghan citizens are respected.

The president also said that the government is working to ensure inclusion and participation of women in the political process. He said that the government is committed to ensuring equal rights for women and girls in all facets of life, including in the workplace, in education, and in the political process.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to addressing the issue of corruption in the country. He said that the government is working to establish an independent anti-corruption commission to investigate and prosecute corruption cases.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the security and safety of all Afghan citizens. He said that the government is working to ensure the rule of law and to address the issue of security challenges in the country.

The president also said that the government is committed to ensuring the protection of human rights in the country. He said that the government is working to ensure the rights of all Afghan citizens, including the rights of women and girls, in all facets of life.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the rule of law in the country. He said that the government is working to create a Just Afghanistan, where the rule of law is upheld and the rights of all Afghan citizens are respected.

The president also said that the government is working to ensure inclusion and participation of women in the political process. He said that the government is committed to ensuring equal rights for women and girls in all facets of life, including in the workplace, in education, and in the political process.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to addressing the issue of corruption in the country. He said that the government is working to establish an independent anti-corruption commission to investigate and prosecute corruption cases.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the security and safety of all Afghan citizens. He said that the government is working to ensure the rule of law and to address the issue of security challenges in the country.

The president also said that the government is committed to ensuring the protection of human rights in the country. He said that the government is working to ensure the rights of all Afghan citizens, including the rights of women and girls, in all facets of life.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the rule of law in the country. He said that the government is working to create a Just Afghanistan, where the rule of law is upheld and the rights of all Afghan citizens are respected.

The president also said that the government is working to ensure inclusion and participation of women in the political process. He said that the government is committed to ensuring equal rights for women and girls in all facets of life, including in the workplace, in education, and in the political process.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to addressing the issue of corruption in the country. He said that the government is working to establish an independent anti-corruption commission to investigate and prosecute corruption cases.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the security and safety of all Afghan citizens. He said that the government is working to ensure the rule of law and to address the issue of security challenges in the country.

The president also said that the government is committed to ensuring the protection of human rights in the country. He said that the government is working to ensure the rights of all Afghan citizens, including the rights of women and girls, in all facets of life.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the rule of law in the country. He said that the government is working to create a Just Afghanistan, where the rule of law is upheld and the rights of all Afghan citizens are respected.

The president also said that the government is working to ensure inclusion and participation of women in the political process. He said that the government is committed to ensuring equal rights for women and girls in all facets of life, including in the workplace, in education, and in the political process.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to addressing the issue of corruption in the country. He said that the government is working to establish an independent anti-corruption commission to investigate and prosecute corruption cases.

President Ghani also said that the government is committed to ensuring the security and safety of all Afghan citizens. He said that the government is working to ensure the rule of law and to address the issue of security challenges in the country.

The president also said that the government is committed to ensuring the protection of human rights in the country. He said that the government is working to ensure the rights of all Afghan citizens, including the rights of women and girls, in all facets of life.