The Afghan government is holding talks with the Taliban in a bid to boost the peace and stability in the country, the president said. The president said as the conflict in Afghanistan continues, the Afghan government must ensure that the Taliban do not use mines and other weapons of war in the new war. He said that the government will be in talks with the Taliban to ensure that the Afghan government can maintain peace and stability in the country.

Meanwhile, Defense Ministry spokesmen said that the Afghan security forces have had a tough fight against the Taliban in the Marja district. They said the security forces have killed several Taliban fighters in the battle for Marja.

The Taliban militants, which ruled the Marja district of Zabul province, were reported 2403 cases during the last 12 months. The report further added that figure could be traced back to the period before the Taliban were booted out of the region. The report also said that the figure is likely to rise in the coming months.

The Reuters report said that the US Secretary of State, John Kerry, had said that there is an opportunity to focus on trade and investment in Afghanistan. Kerry had said that the US government should come up with a proper strategy that could bring Afghanistan closer to its neighbors and the world.

The US president said, the sacred time of this month was an opportunity to focus on immigration and refugees. He said that he would be welcoming some rules and regulations, I will be meeting with the US president and the US National Security Council. He said that the US government had abandoned Islamabad and Washington had failed to provide any help to the Afghan government.
