KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani on Monday afternoon spoke at the opening of an international meeting on "strengthening regional consensus for peace," stressing the need for the support of neighboring and regional countries to participate in the reconciliation process in Afghanistan.

Representatives of 19 countries and international organizations attended the virtual meeting that was held at the Presidential Palace.

"We all are faced with the threat of terrorism, regional crime networks and extremism," Ghani said. "The logical thought is that we stay together and Afghanistan as a result of regional cooperation can play a good role in regional stability and prosperity.

He said that international consensus is the way forward, adding that "the support of regional and neighboring countries for regional consensus will help Afghanistan to achieve its goals on peace." On peace, Ghani said that "the peace process will face serious challenges if the Taliban continue the war." Unfortunately, violence level is high compared to the last year. Recent reports by the UN showed that the Taliban is yet to implement their commitments and maintain their ties with terrorist networks," Ghani said.

Ghani said that the Afghan government has made big steps with the prisoner release, and the Taliban should quit violence and release the Afghan prisoners.

Pakistan Calls for Early Start to Intra-Afghan Talks

PESHAWAR - Pakistan has called on the global community to focus on ensuring an early start and successful completion of intra-Afghan negotiations, once again blaming unnamed "spoilers" who did not want to see the restoration of peace and stability in Afghanistan and the region. The world was urged not to let such elements succeed.

Participating in a virtual conference in Kabul on "Strengthening Consensus for Peace," Pakistan underscored the importance of a peaceful and stable Afghanistan for peace and stability in the region and beyond.

A statement from the Foreign Office said the signing of the US-Taliban Peace Agreement in 2020 created a historic opportunity that must be seized by the Afghan leadership to work together and achieve an inclusive political settlement for Pakistan.

"Pakistan remains hopeful that the release of prisoners will be completed soon as per the Peace Agreement to pave the way for the earliest commencement of intra-Afghan negotiations," it added.

Pakistan also spoke of the steps it had taken to facilitate Afghanistan's trade by opening border crossing terminals.

Afghanistan to Start University Entrance Exams in Less Than Two Weeks

KABUL - Afghanistan will start delayed university entrance exams on 19 July, authorities have said.

The exams will continue for two months in different provinces of the country, the National Examination Authority of Afghanistan said.

Results will be declared in 15 days following completion of the examination process.

According to a scheduled released by NEXA, biometric registration of candidates will begin five days before the exams start.

The exams have been delayed due to coronavirus pandemic. Abdul Qadir Khamosh, acting head of NEXA, said that preventive measures will be in place.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Higher Education has prepared a plan based on which universities will reopen for comment on coming Saturday, if approved by the cabinet. (TJN NEWS)

T he Kabul government has released a number of prisoners to the Taliban, in line with the US-Taliban peace deal signed in Doha, Qatar, who signed a peace deal with the United States administration in 2016, but the party says its top prisoners are yet to be released. But the Taliban did not carry any weight in the Afghan political and stability realm.

Hezbollah is known for the aggressive role in Afghanistan during the civil war as well as the post-Taliban Afghanistan and has expanded its inhalation across Afghanistan's neighborhoods. He capitalized on the novelty of “foreign occupation,” which in the West sparkled the “nationalist” slogan against the post-Taliban Afghan meant the “American capitalist occupation” for Hezbollah.

In 2003, the US State Department declared Hezbollah a terro- rist. The then-Sate Department spokesman Richard Boucher read out the statement: “The US has added an indication that including Hezbollah applauded has participated in and supported terrorist activities that threaten the national security of the US. Because of its terrorist activity, the United States designates Hezbollah a terrorist organization.

Hezbollah is a Shia Islamic organization that has operated in Lebanon, Syria, and, since the 2006 war between Israel and Hezbollah, and focuses on the Islamic resistance against Israel. It is a political party that is affiliated with the Shia Islamic movement and has strong support among the Shia community in Lebanon and Syria, as well as among certain segments of the Sunni community in Iraq.

Palace Awaits Abdullah’s List on Cabinet

KABUL - Two months after the signing of the political agreement between President Ghani and Dr. Abdullah Abdullah, the list of those who will find their way to the cabinet has still not been made public, said an official from the Presidential Palace. Abdullah’s final choices for his share of the cabinet are still pending, the official said.

Abdullah has been given 50% share in the cabinet based on the political agreement. Critics say further delay in the signing of the political agreement.

"Government authority has wasted Afghans’ time," said Habib-Ur-Rahman Pedaram, an MP.

"We need a responsible cabinet," said Habib-Ur-Rahman Pedaram, an MP.

"The main problem is the rift between (political) leaders and parties and movements who helped Ghani and Abdullah in the elections and who now want a share and are not accepting anything but a ministerial position," said Habib-Ur-Rahman Pedaram, an MP.

"They are not feeling the pain of the nation. Their position in power is important to them," said Zainullah Mahboobi, a Kabul resident.

"This product is very easy and can be grown in a very short time; also it is only possible to cultivate in Helmand, especially in Nad Ali district," said Tor Jan, a peanut farmer.

"The crop can be harvested in three months and we are very satisfied with the yield. Peanut cultivation needs less water and less expenses," said Mohammad, a peanut farmer.

A number of farmers argue the government must create markets for peanuts in the province.

"Helmand is the only province in the south where peanuts are grown and yield a lot, but the problem is that we sell them at a very low price. We ask the government to create a special market for this product," said Ahmadullah, who are residents of Shakar Dara district.

"The government has to create a way for us to send our crops to foreign countries as well as to other provinces of Afghanistan. If we are given a path, our crops will have a better market and better revenue," said Gul Ahmad, a resident of Nad Ali district.

"In Helmand province, 5,000 hectares of land have been planted with peanuts and our estimation shows that this year we will get 23,000 metric tons of peanuts from the fields, which is an increase of about five percent over last year. We are also trying to aid the processing of peanuts," said Zalmay Alako, head of Helmand’s agriculture directorate.
