Redistributing Resources

H umans depend heavily on the environment where they live. Both the physical and socioeconomic circumstances provide the opportunity to fulfill their different sorts of requirements. Among these requirements the needs to live are the most basic ones, and they include food, shelter and certain other necessities. It is only after fulfillment of these basic requirements that human beings are able to divert their attentions towards other objects and goals. In fact, they would not be able to give proper meaning to their lives and will be able to improve themselves unless they have their rudimentary requirements properly met. It is also very important to note that there are enough resources around the world that can fulfill most of the requirements of most of the people in the world. However, there are millions of people in the world who do not have these basic requirements. They are forced from extreme poverty and dearth of resources. Many of them die every day as a result of not being able to provide for their basic needs. This is why, it is absolutely unfair that some people have the opportunity to use their resources for their own selfish goals, while others do not get the opportunity to live. This is why, there is a great need to change the system. This is the system that has further created different sorts of evils in society. There is a complete imbalance between the rich and the poor. The poor, because of this imbalance, have been left without the opportunity to live a proper life. The rich, because of this imbalance, have been able to live a wealthy life. This has created different sorts of problems in society. There are many problems that people face because of this imbalance. There are some thinkers who even believe that human beings are bound to be in conflict because of this imbalance. They believe that conflict is the only way to solve this problem. It is not correct, however, to believe that conflict is the only way to solve this problem. There is a better way to solve this problem. It is the responsibility of all of us to change the system.
