The Taliban, he said, had convinced itself that any moves would not have a "future" unless it took action against the Haqqani network and the biggest network, said Olson, and continued to work with the United States.

However, he said Pakistan's most recent peace initiative with the Taliban is "a series of offers that have been hung in front of the Taliban".

The Taliban, he said, has convinced itself that any moves would not have a "future" unless it took action against the Haqqani network and the biggest network, said Olson, and continued to work with the United States.

However, he said Pakistan's most recent peace initiative with the Taliban is "a series of offers that have been hung in front of the Taliban".

The Taliban, he said, has convinced itself that any moves would not have a "future" unless it took action against the Haqqani network and the biggest network, said Olson, and continued to work with the United States.

However, he said Pakistan's most recent peace initiative with the Taliban is "a series of offers that have been hung in front of the Taliban".

The Taliban, he said, has convinced itself that any moves would not have a "future" unless it took action against the Haqqani network and the biggest network, said Olson, and continued to work with the United States.

However, he said Pakistan's most recent peace initiative with the Taliban is "a series of offers that have been hung in front of the Taliban".