The Unending Conflict of Syria

By Hajjatullah Zia

The members of the Security Council looked forward to the meeting as a necessary new opportunity to convene and to en- courage the Syrian parties to return to talks in good faith and to agree on the implementation of theCeasefire for which the agenda was set out by the UN special envoy when talks resumed," the EU's High Representative for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, Federica Mogherini, said.

The fourth round of Syrian peace talks ended on Friday with no breakthrough towards the political transition and an end to the country's six-year war. Then further bolstered the an- nouncement by Special Envoy De Mistura of a clear agenda for future rounds of peace talks.

The Syrian conflict, which enters its seventh year this month, has repeated the pattern of a conflict that has left few winners, and many victims of war and instability. Indeed, all talk- ing parties are in pursuit of a political goal and the facts that are not involved in the talks also want a share in the government in case of peace agreement. Otherwise, they will continue violat- ing human rights andประชาชน are ready to trigger a wave of protest against the regime. The economy has become the new and better round of peace talks, and the General Assembly has called for an immediate and uni- formal solution of the conflict to stop state violence and war and political turmoil. Afghanistan recently adopted a new political plan, which is being followed by the other U.S. and international community in the peace process.

The administration has accused its allies in the conflict of being supporters of the Assad regime. The administration has called on the Assad regime to open the country's borders to all those who want to leave the country. The same is the case with the role and presence of formal courts. Most of the districts in the country are being governed by local police, and the same is the case with the role and presence of formal courts. Most of the districts in the country are under the control of the local police, and the local police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas.

And, this has resulted in continuation of incidents of violence against women that are pursued are because of the media, and the same is the case with the role and presence of formal courts. Most of the districts in the country are being governed by local police, and the police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas. Moreover, the presence of formal courts in all parts of the country is lacking in many of the remote areas. In so many districts they are present as a formal police in the field of law and order, but they are not present in some areas.

Seventy-one percent of the women want to come to the police for help, but they do not have the required access and authority in many of the remote areas. Sometimes it has been observed that the women who want to com- plain against some violence that their husbands have inflicted upon them, they are not granted the required access and authority to file complaints. As a result, the women have to face a discriminating attitude of the authorities. Moreover, the police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas.

Moreover, the police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas. In so many districts they are present as a formal police in the field of law and order, but they are not present in some areas. Moreover, the presence of formal courts in all parts of the country is lacking in many of the remote areas. In so many districts they are present as a formal police in the field of law and order, but they are not present in some areas. Moreover, the police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas. In so many districts they are present as a formal police in the field of law and order, but they are not present in some areas. Moreover, the police have been granted the authority to handle legal matters in their areas. In so many districts they are present as a formal police in the field of law and order, but they are not present in some areas.