Challenges for Afghanistan

Many years of war against terrorism in Afghanistan have proved to be tiring. The international forces that were involved in the war have mostly withdrawn and the remaining are making preparations to do so. However, the situation of peace and tranquility has not changed much for the people of Afghanistan. In the early years of war, there were certain casualties and there were hopes that the country would move towards better socioeconomic conditions. Nevertheless, that never happened and today the country is once again being highly influenced by Pakistan by Taliban and other insurgent groups particularly. During NATO’s Secretory General Jens Stoltenberg also believes that Afghanistan faces serious security challenges. Speaking about Afghanistan, at the launch of a report, he said, “There are many challenges in Afghanistan and there is still violence. The Taliban is still a real threat and we have many different terrorist groups that operate in Afghanistan.”

Today, Taliban is active in many parts of the country and unfortunately, they are active in the areas that were previously not under their control. Some analysts believe that the number of districts under the control of Taliban is the highest currently. And last year’s report also revealed that the year was the deadliest for children, particularly the children. However, we hoped because the year of the future and said in this statement “NATO will not become more involved and contribute to the fighting against terrorism. It’s a light we have been in for over 20 years. We have been deployed in Afghanistan as part of our mission to train Afghan forces. They are from 39 NATO member states and partner countries. They are training Afghan forces to help their own country and call for help from other nations. We have one approach in Afghanistan and we must not forget that Afghanistan is about fighting terrorism. The reason why we went into Afghanistan was a direct response to a terrorist attack on the United States and the 9-11 attack.”

However, the opinions of the people and intellectuals towards the socio-political situation in Afghanistan appear to be divergent and they are not favourable towards the future in this regard. Therefore, despite the fact that the situation regarding the situation are very shaky, It’s not just about the situation in Afghanistan, but the situation by the Afghan authorities as a response to the terrorist attack. Especially, in the last one month the situation is ambiguous so as to where the country is heading and what will be the future of the socio-political situation in the region. Though, the so-called downfall of the Taliban helped our country out of insolvency and in that regard billions of dollars have immigrated, especially in 2013, when the Taliban still remain with major concerns. There are many serious matters that doubt the future of the peace, stability and prosperity in the region.

According to the report of UNICEF, Afghanistan is not only one of the most war-affected countries but is also one of the least developed countries in the world. Afghanistan is suffering from many types of problems. Between the economic and political crises, the government has been trying hard to solve the problems by the means of war against terrorism. Since 2001, the United Nations has been carrying out a large number of efforts to combat the war in Afghanistan. The UN has been putting great efforts to help Afghanistan rebuild itself. The country has a long way to go until it becomes a stable and peaceful country. However, the Taliban’s control has not been decreasing despite the efforts of the UN and the Afghan government. The Taliban have increased their power by capturing many areas in the country. According to the latest reports, the Taliban have captured several districts in the northern and eastern parts of Afghanistan. The Taliban have also increased their control over the southern and western parts of the country. Despite the efforts of the UN, the Afghan government, and the international community, the Taliban have not been able to achieve their goal of establishing an Islamic State in Afghanistan.

The Afghan government has been working to improve the situation in the country, but it has not been able to achieve its goal. The government has been facing a lot of challenges, including the war against terrorism, the economic crisis, and the political instability. These challenges have made it difficult for the government to provide the basic needs of the people. The lack of infrastructure, education, and healthcare services has made it difficult for the people to live a normal life.

Moreover, the lack of a stable government has made it difficult for the government to address the needs of the people. The government has been struggling to provide basic services, such as healthcare and education, to the people. The government has also been facing a lot of corruption, which has made it difficult to provide the basic needs of the people.

The UN has been working to improve the situation in Afghanistan, but it has not been able to achieve its goal. The UN has been providing aid to the people, but it has not been able to address the root causes of the problems. The UN has been facing a lot of challenges, including the lack of resources, the lack of cooperation from the government, and the lack of a stable government.
