Crisis (Jun 21-July 20)

You may be discovering that you need to be more assertive in order to meet your needs today. As you see it that this is a big problem, you will have to sort out your own feelings. You may have more hesitations to work the way you want to.

You’re often the one who contributes in the interaction. Today you naturally have a willingness to listen. But your receptivity may be overwhelmed now by your desire to talk about your feelings for a change. It’s perfectly natural to harify your own position and want to share them instead of just reflecting on everyone else’s needs.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb 18)

You could grow overly concerned with how other people feel when you think about ways you can improve. Your desire to continue with the work you’re doing and not let others down is a very important part of your identity. You’re no doubt enjoying the work you’re doing and can’t let anything stand in the way. You’re devoted to making this work a success, even when others seem to not be as focused on it. You might feel like you don’t have enough support or resources to get things right. You need to focus on your own needs and get things right for yourself.
