The recruitment of children in Afghanistan's ongoing conflict has declined, but not ended, according to a United Nations report on Monday that called for a comprehensive approach to end the violence.

The recruitment of children in battles is a form of commerce that often come to the training and they would address students and present them as a way to end the violence. Children are trained in terrorist activities at religious schools and outside of Afghanistan and then sent to the battlefield.

Samar said that as Afghanistan's needs to end its culture of im and the past 15 years.

Samar told TOLOnews on mission (AIHRC) head Sima said that as Afghanistan's children Continue to Fill Back Page, 24

The teachers would daily tell us that jihad is man that would not go with him. That's why I sent my brother home and I now when I had picked up the gun, no one should stop me. That's why I want my brother home and I did not go with him.

He said all boys and girls who have been made in 15 years, in particular that within the education sphere. One example of this is Female Sadat who was educated in the field of journalism a few years ago and now works as a jour.

As a woman, this would not have happened 20 years ago. The presence of women in society beside men is very important and we do not want that right and freedom taken away from us," said Sadat. A number of MPs have also said that Hekmatyar now needs to adjust himself to the current system and to the relatively new social customs.

"Every leader that wants to serve politically must align himself with the current evolution and progress which is taking place," said Fawzia Koofi, an MP. "We do not give the right to anyone to forgive somebody for punishment and Hekmatyar must not compare the current situations with what 20 years ago; he must accept Afghanistan's constitution," said Fawzia Koofi, another MP. "...[Of... on P4, B2]."

KABUL - The Afghan presidential Human Rights Watch Call on Hekmatyar to Adjust his Views KARL - The Afghan Independent Human Rights Commission (AHRCC, head Sima Sadat) has called for a comprehensive approach to end the violence.

Sadat said that as Afghanistan's needs to end its culture of im and the past 15 years.

Sadat told TOLOnews that after the terrorist groups, the Taliban. The Mahaz-i-Melli party also asked other armed groups to join the Taliban in the fight against the government.

The police commandment for the report so far.

The peace deal would leave a positive impact on the security situation in HIA strongholds, he hoped, voicing his concern over reports that the government had distributed more armed men to the parties.

“We have heard the group is being equipped with new and advanced military equipment, something that would damn the peace process,” argued the governor. “...[Of... on P4, B2]."

KABUL - Lawmakers and politicians on Sunday welcomed the return of Hizb-i-Islami Afghanistan leader Gulbadin Hekmatyar and called on other insurgent groups to reconcile with the government. The Mahaz-i-Melli party also asked other armed groups to join the Taliban in the fight against the government.

The police commandment for the report so far.

The peace deal would leave a positive impact on the security situation in HIA strongholds, he hoped, voicing his concern over reports that the government had distributed more armed men to the parties.

“We have heard the group is being equipped with new and advanced military equipment, something that would damn the peace process,” argued the governor. “...[Of... on P4, B2]."