US-Led Strike on IS Kills at Least 352 Civilians: Pentagon

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon said on Sunday that at least 352 civilians were killed in US-led air strikes against the Islamic State in the past 24 hours, the war in Syria and Afghanistan against the Taliban on Tuesday, March 21, 2017. The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government.

The Pentagon said it had assessed 352 civilian deaths, a number that was significantly higher than previous estimates. The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government.

The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government, which is facing a significant threat from the Taliban. The Pentagon said it had assessed 352 civilian deaths, a number that was significantly higher than previous estimates. The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government.

The Pentagon said it had assessed 352 civilian deaths, a number that was significantly higher than previous estimates. The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government. The Pentagon said it had assessed 352 civilian deaths, a number that was significantly higher than previous estimates. The strikes were carried out in support of the Afghan government.