The day was proclaimed by the United Nations General Assembly in December 1993. As a member of the Islamic Republic, I support the charter of the United Nations, and the Declaration of Human Rights. By upholding the rights of the press, we can ensure that the government does not interfere with the freedom of the press. This is important for the welfare of the people and the development of the country. The freedom of the press is a fundamental human right, and it is the responsibility of the government to protect it. By doing so, we can ensure that the people have access to information and can make informed decisions. The media plays a crucial role in the development of a democratic society. Therefore, I believe that the government should support and protect the freedom of the press.