Fortunately, the situation is set to improve. The Pasteur Institute is expanding its manufacturing capacity to produce the vaccines. The vaccine, which has also been shown to protect against yellow fever, has been approved by the World Health Organization and the US Food and Drug Administration. The vaccine is also expected to be available in other parts of the world, including Africa.

Moreover, the Pasteur Institute is about to close down for a five-month period to upgrade its facilities. This will result in a temporary shortage of vaccines.

The WHO now must convene an emergency committee to coordinate the efforts of the international community to prevent the spread of yellow fever in Africa.
