US Post-Peace Military Role be Conditions Based

US Defense Secretary James Mattis has said any US military role would be conditioned based and would be determined in coordination with the government of the day, once peace was achieved in Afghanistan.

WASHINGTON - "Any US military coalition role after the peace is reached, would be conditions-based, worked out with the Afghan government and depend on the threat," Mattis told a Washington audience responding to a question at the US Institute of Peace. The new Special US Envoy in Af-ghan reconciliation, he said, is working hard on reconciliation, which is the part of the new South Asia Strategy of four
