President Trump Disappointed as Bergdahl Walks Free

WASHINGTON - Army Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl, who was re- leased from five years of Taliban captivity under a prisoner swap, walked out of a courtroom as a free man after he pleaded guilty and the judge sentenced him, reduced his rank in exchange for two sides.

Trump, however, expressed his disappointment over the judgment. “The decision on Sergeant Bergdahl is a complete and total disgrace to our country and to our military.” Trump tweeted.

As part of the deal, Bergdahl would forfeit his pay of $1,000 for 10 months. He was captured by the Taliban in Afghanistan in 2009 after he walked off his base. He was in Taliban captivity for five years before being released.
